SOME MORE ABOUT ROADS

In the previous article, we told about the "Wilderness Turnpike Road," constructed at State expense, one branch of which leads off from Main Street, Mt. Vernon, Ky. at Wm. Cox's residence.

No estimate could be made of the thousands of tons of merchandise that has passed over this and the Big Hill branch of the "Old State Road" in the "good old Antebellum days."

We promised to say something of the system under which "county roads" were opened, and how kept in repair.

There were no roads to speak of in some sections of the state prior to the adoption of the constitution of 1850. In vast sections no wagons were used or needed.

The articles of commerce were venison hams, deer skins, dressed or undressed, like Bridget served the tomatoes, ginseng and chestnuts. These were carried to market on horse-back over bridge paths, across which numerous fallen trees of large size lay.

Frequently the enterprising merchant would have to make a detour around a fallen monarch, his pony could not cross. In some localities where settlements had been made earlier the settler had raised a yoke of steers, which with the two wheeled ox-cart made it possible for him to haul a load of corn to some "Tavern" on the State road to feed hog droves. Of course he had to chop the logs that lay across his path, to make room for his wheels, and do some digging on steep hill sides to keep his cart from upsetting.

The people who had settled on the rich Cumberland river bottoms and tributary streams had to provide something better than the ox-cart. A covered wagon with a wonderful shaped body (the wagon body) was employed for hauling goods from Louisville, Lexington or Frankfort to the mountain stores. These teams secured from two to four yoke of steers to hitch on to his wagon, then with a supply of bacon, corn meal, coffee pot, and frying pan he would start for market to get a load of goods, carrying his bedding and, barker in his wagon body. It wasn't a "fast freight," for the patient driver with a long whip and a "wo haw Buck, Gee Berry" what you doin' Mike? would go over this wonderful wilderness road to get a load of goods, to return in a few weeks. In 1850 under the new constitution the legislature provided for the opening of county roads, leading to the various County Seats which usually were branches from this State road—not always. The plan was to make a survey of the road to be opened whereupon the County court made an order and an allotment of hands, adjacent to same, to cut out a county road, from— to—. This was called the Militia system, requiring males, subject to military duty between the age of sixteen and forty five.

There have been several amendments, and modifications to this law, to which this generation is indebted for the magnificent system of county roads we so much prize and enjoy.

We have not space for a description of what we believe will be the plan ultimately adopted for the construction of national highways. We say, will be, with the utmost confidence for what the people want and are willing to pay the price if they can have from a macadamized county road rendered fit for travel with a "steam roller" to an inter-oceanic canal. In another article we propose to describe how we believe good roads will be possible for "We Us, V Co."

LIVINGSTON.—A visit on Tuesday last showed this bustling town was not only still on the map but was as wide awake as ever and everyone of its citizens are live boosters for their town and Boone Way. Nearest the river, not far from the bridge is located Ed Owens' pop, mineral water and lunch stand. C. C. Cromer's store is next up the street; the proprietor is also interested in cross ties and lumber. J. T. Elliott is the butcher man and furnishes meats, etc., for the town. J. A. Inman has a tonsorial parlor next door. Dr. Amyx's drug store follows in line on up street where he can prescribe and furnish medicines for the ailing. J. F. Jones handles the razor and shears next door in the removal of overgrown whiskers and hair. J. M. Four, the best humored blind man anywhere, conducts a soda fountain and ice cream parlor, some doors farther up the street. T. J. Pennington's general store comes next in line, next door to post office where the veteran G. D. Cook has charge of Uncle Sam's mail matter, which he has handled for some years. J. A. Oliver's general store follows next adjacent to Masonic building, where he carries a large stock. Mart Hix does business in the original, or about the first storehouse built in Livingston where Champ Mullins sold goods for many years, next to the Mullins' Hotel building at north end of town. The R. M. K. Flour Co., genial W. H. Krueger in charge, John Clark, clerk, are on east side of street toward north end of town. A large stock is also carried by this firm. Further south on this street is the big establishment of E. L. Cockrell with Tom Jones, clerk. L. H. Davis' large store comes next with Dock Callaway yielding the yard stick and balancing scales. The Eight Gables Hotel and restaurant, W. G. Niceley is the clever proprietor, doing a good business. The court house and jail is just south of this hotel, where Judge Witt attends to the cases of offenders again the law. Livingston has up-to-date things and is a live, progressive town and improvements are being made all the time. The Juniors have bought a lot and are preparing to build a two-story hall for lodge and other purposes. The telephone exchange is located above Dr. Amyx's drug store and is in charge of Miss Lucinda Hellard, assisted by operator Miss Mary Seaborn in the duties of answering "calls."

Marshal Hellard extended the courtesies of the town to ye writer while there. Over at the dispatcher's office we found clever Peter Drummond in charge, while R. J. Lemmonds, chief dispatcher is away on visit to Paris, Tenn., his old home. Dispatchers Preston, Falin and Neighbors were there, it being about "trick" changing time. Samms, night dispatcher, was at home "pounding his ear on a pillow." Down stairs we found the old veteran operator, J. B. Donnelly, who has slung lightning from the Atlantic to the Pacific during many years past. He loves horses and knows a good one when he sees it. John W. Mullins, second trick man, "down stairs," showed up, for work at changing time. Agent Blanford, who is also a long-time-ago operator, was at the ticket case and looking after passengers. O. D. Bryant, a Mt. Vernie boy, is at freight depot where he has a telegraph instrument and telephone connection to every old place to keep him company while he is not busy rushing his Oliver typewriter which he has weighted down with a key of railroad spikes and a box of pole bolts to steady the machine, so rapid is his speed in writing—at least that is what he told the writer. Last, but not least, by a long shot is Will Owens, the janitor, with duties enough to stagger any one else but him. He is busy all the time and does more work than the whole push put together. He is always busy and does up the work to the satisfaction of all concerned and he always has a pleasant word for you no matter how busy he is.

LIVINGSTON SECOND TIME.—In our Livingston notes of its business and professional men we failed in our rush, to mention some of the other live ones. W. H. Cottin, L. & N. coal inspector, whose job keeps him on the go. Drs. Webb, Joyner and Amyx ably represent the medical fraternity. Henry Browning looks after the mechanical department of L. & N. at the town by the river side. Mahlen Summers is night owl in the yards.—Joe Dickerson furnishes the ice to overcome high conditions of the atmosphere. We had been led by remarks from watch-inspector Franklin that the bunch at the station were "highbinders" and when we told him of our reception there he remarked, "Oh, they are on their good behavior now. They will break out in a fresh place soon and old Nick himself can't head 'em off."

To the citizens of Rockcastle and Laurel counties:

Dear Friends:—My intention was to start an early campaign, and visit every house, and give a talk in every school house in the two counties, but was prevented doing so, by five cases of typhoid fever in my family, ever since first week in July up to the present time, which caused me to stay at home during the time of sickness. I want to state through the papers that I am going to make the short time count for what it is worth, and will take great pleasure in discussing my ideas and platform, what I believe and know is right, to the splendid voters of the two counties. My principals as I stand, are Progressive in every way. I believe in better conditions of the working class of people, restriction of corporations, old age labor pensions, regulations in railway passengers and freight tariffs rates, common sense management of our financial state and county affairs, instead of a political party purpose. Initiative, referendum and recall are three of the most needed issues for the present time and improvement of our schools. I believe in a man having back bone enough, when he votes a ticket and lectures for its success, to comply with our present primary election laws and run under the same device, he supported at the last regular national election.

Dear voters, let us be careful in selecting our officers this year and elect men of honor, soberness, uprightness, integrity, qualification and ability, party issues are all in vain, unless we can secure the right man to stand behind the gun.

Humbly ask every voter to consider my claim as candidate for Representative of the 70th District, and your support will be highly appreciated and if elected, I will do my best in serving this district for the betterment of our conditions in every way, and I trust no one will regret casting his vote for this humble servant.

CHRONIC DYSPEPSIA

The following unsolicited testimonial should certainly be sufficient to give hope and courage to persons afflicted with chronic dyspepsia: "I have been a chronic dyspeptic for years, and of all the medicine I have taken, Chamberlain's Tablets have done me more good than anything else," says W. G. Mattison, No. 7 Sherman St., Hornellsville, N. Y. For sale by all dealers.

BOONE WAY "PLUG." R. S. Martin, the Brothead tobacco manufacturer, who has made several popular brands for many years past has just put on the market a new one named "Boone Way Plug," which is pronounced by experts to be a most excellent chew. Mr. Martin donated a box of it to the Boone Way Booster Band at this place. The tobacco was placed in C. C. Davis' drug store to be sold and proceeds to be put in the Bands postage. Chewers are requested to call and secure a plug of his new and soon to be popular brand of the weed.

THEY MAKE YOU FEEL GOOD
The pleasant purgative effect produced by Chamberlain's Tablets and the healthy condition of body and mind which they create make one feel joyful. For sale by all dealers.

"A ROAD OF ROMANCE." The first section of a historical story of Boone's trail and the Old Wilderness Road will be published in next issue of SIGNAL and finish in following issue. This is an intensely interesting narrative and everyone should be sure to read it.
It was written by Geo. V. Steep, of Indianapolis, the noted war correspondent who is now engaged in the work with James Maret in the promotion of Boone Way.

GO TO IT. If you can't own the town, don't disown it. This life is what we make it; so is this town. In some respects this town is not perfect; are you? What this town needs isn't fault-finders, but fault-fixers. This town will never grow on money sent to some other town. The country is growing in population; is this town keeping up?
The man who begins to plan for this town will soon be calling it "my town." This town had to be started by somebody; it has got to be kept going by somebody else.
This town doesn't need boasting any more than any other town, but it needs it just as much. The pioneers with William North Henderson in 1810, thought this was a good place for a town; let's make it a poor place for knockers.

BAKER-FISH:—A pretty home wedding was solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents, Atty.
and Mrs. G. G. Brock, London, Ky., Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. The contracting parties were Miss Ethel Baker, of that city and Mr. Will H. Fish, one of Mt. Vernon's most successful and progressive young business men.
Rev. Walter Brock, pastor of the Fifth St. Baptist church, Lexington, and an uncle of the bride, was the officiating clergyman, who tied the nuptial knot, pronouncing the ceremony which united the lives of these estimable young people. The wedding was a quiet one, witnessed only by immediate relatives of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends. Promptly at the appointed hour, Miss Betty Maris in her most charming manner sang, "Since God Gives me you," followed by the wedding march played by Mrs. Chas. Chandler, an aunt of the bride, the young couple took their places beneath a very pretty floral arch where the minister with an impressive, yet simple and exceedingly pretty ring ceremony made them husband and wife. The bride was becomingly attired in a handsome traveling suit and with the bridal-roses looked the very queen that her life has characterized her to be.
The groom wore the conventional black. After congratulations nice refreshments were served. At 3:45 the happy couple amid showers of rice and well wishes for their future happiness and prosperity, boarded the fast train for Cincinnati and other northern points to spend a few days of their honeymoon and after October 20th, will be at home to their friends, on West Main St. Mt. Vernon Ky.

section and one of the county's most upright citizens, died last Friday after an illness of several weeks of typhoid fever. The deceased leaves besides his wife and five small children, an aged father and mother and several brothers and sisters. Funeral services were conducted at Maple Grove church by the Rev. Huey Powder, after which the burial took place with the honors of the Masonic order.

One of the prettiest of fall weddings took place Thursday afternoon at 6 o'clock when Miss Rebecca Watson was married to the Rev. William Buchanan Byers, of Hyden. The home of the brides mother Mrs. Howe Watson, was beautifully decorated with Killarney roses. The Rev. Robert Christy, an uncle of the bride, of Pittsburgh Pa., officiated. A large gathering of relatives and friends attended the wedding. Miss Lucy Chin, pianist Miss Rachel Settle, violinist, played the wedding march and Carl Michel, of Harlan, sang before the entrance of the bridal party. Misses Mary Swigert Hendrick, of this city; Miss Muriel Rogers, of New York City; Sallie McEwan, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Jessie Monroe, of Providence, R. I.; and Martha Rhodes Carter, of Versailles, were ribbon bearers, leading the bridal procession and forming the aisle thru which the bridal party passed. The bride's sister, Miss Charlotte Watson, was maid of honor and entered alone. Following her came the flower bearers, little Miss Mary Barr Clay and Master Watson Clay, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, the Rev.
George Watson, of Mt. Vernon, and the Rev. Byers was attended by Clinton D. Bowman of Washington College, Tenn. The bride wore a gown of white charmeuse with trimmings of Medici lace and pearls with a court train. A point lace veil, which had been worn many years ago in the Watson family, with a wreath of orange blossoms, was worn, and she carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The gown worn by the maid of honor was of pink crepe de chine with trimmings of lace and clusters of flowers, and large bouquet was of pink roses.
The ribbon bearers were robed in white mull with sashes of pink, and the frock of the little flower girl was of lace with pink trimmings.
Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held and Mrs. Watson was assisted in the duties of receiving by Mrs. Frank Clay and Mr. Clay, of Pittsburgh, Pa. Refreshments were served, and at the bridal table besides the bridal party were seated Ensign Henry T. Settle and Messrs Knox and Joseph Brown, of Taylorsville.
The Rev. Mr. Byers and Mrs.
Byers left later in the evening for Hyden, where they will go to housekeeping. Many guests from out of town were in attendance, among them being Mrs. R. Burnham and Miss Madge Burnham, of Richmond; Mrs. J. W. Brown, Misses Rose McCord, Susan Robinson and Lila Byers, of Mt. Vernon; Mrs. John B. McFerron and Miss Anna Barr, of Louisville; the Rev. Hugh Leight and Mrs. Leight of Covington; Walter Bennett, of Richmond; Miss Irene Voight, of Louisville, and the Rev. Robert Christie and Mrs. Christie of Pittsburgh. — Frankfort Correspondent Courier Journal.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anemia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in ill ventilated factories—or those who are shut up indoors in winter time with a coal stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic (oxide) gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles, in anemic people may have been caused by lack of good fresh air breathed into lungs, or by poor digestion or dyspepsia. Sometimes people suffer intense pain over the heart which is not heart disease at all, but caused by indigestion. Whatever the cause, there's just one remedy that you can turn to—knowing that it has given satisfaction for over 40 years.

is a blood cleanser and alternative that starts the liver and stomach into vigorous action. It thus assists the body to manufacture rich red blood which feeds the heart—nerves—brain and organs of the body. The organs work smoothly like machinery running in oil. You feel clean, strong and vigorous instead of tired, weak and faint. Nowadays you can obtain Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery Tablets, as well as the liquid form from all medicine dealers, or tablets by mail, prepaid in $1 or 50c size. Address R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

CO-OPERATION.

Washington, Oct. 1.—President Finley, of the Southern Railway Company, referring to-day to the interest being manifested in co-operation in agricultural communities in the Southeast, said:

"The subject of co-operation, in all of its many possible applications, is one that is attracting world-wide attention at the present time. The extent to which the co-operative principle has already been developed is illustrated by the fact that the session of the International Co-operative Alliance in Glasgow, Scotland, during the month of August were attended by six hundred delegates representing over twenty million members of one hundred and thirty thousand co-operative societies in twenty-four countries and in opening the Congress, as its Honorary President, Lord Grey, the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, spoke of it as endeavoring to create an international co-operative commonwealth.

"In Denmark, Ireland, and other European countries, and to some extent in the United States, it has been demonstrated that there is a wide field for the successful development of co-operative associations in agricultural communities.

"While there are other lines in which co-operation has been carried on successfully and profitably that to which I believe special attention may well be given by Southern farmers is the organization of co-operative selling associations. Such associations may be made particularly useful in the handling of fruits and vegetables, the profitable production of which is dependent in large measures upon successful marketing.

"One of the most important advantages of co-operative marketing is that it is practicable for an association combining the resources of a considerable number of producers to obtain much more detailed and reliable information as to conditions at different market points than can generally be obtained by any single individual. This tends to prevent the overstocking of one or more markets while others may be left with inadequate supplies which is one of the greatest difficulties encountered in independent marketing.

"For the accomplishment of the best results in the distribution of products among markets it is important that a large number of producers shall unite in a single association or that there shall be effective co-operation between a number of local associations.

"Another matter, the importance of which can not be overestimated is that a co-operative marketing organization which exercises effective control over the grading and packing of products can build up a valuable reputation for the producers of its locality. When buyers learn that the grade and packing of any particular association may be relied upon absolutely, its goods are sought out and its name or trade-mark becomes an asset of value to each member of the association.

Another advantage is that, handling a larger volume of business, the association may find it profitable to devote more attention, not only to securing general market information, but also to looking into the comparative advantages of dealing with different buyers in the same market than can be done by individual producers. Its larger volume of business also tends to increase competition among buyers for its products and enables it, in many instances, to ship in carload quantities.

"A most important matter in connection with the profitable growing of perishable fruits and vegetables is the provision of some effective means to take care of the culls and of all surplus production that the market will not absorb in a fresh state. This may be done by the establishment of canneries evaporating plants, and plants for the manufacture of cider and vinegar. The co-operative marketing association may very properly interest itself in securing the establishment of plants of this kind to take care of the culls and the surplus production of its members.

"The activities of a co-operative selling agency may also, in some instances, be extended to matters connected with production. It may, for example, undertake the buying of the seeds used by its members, looking into their purity and germinative qualities and insuring the production of the same varieties by all members of the organization.

"The managements of the Southern Railway Company and its Associated Companies, in maintaining a corps of Market Agents for the purpose of bringing producers in the territory traversed by their lines into relations with buyers, have recognized the value of co-operation. The work done by these Agents is, in itself, entirely co-operative. They are familiar with the plans of organization and methods of operation of successful co-operative selling organizations and are ready at all times to give information to producers who may wish to organize co-operative associations for the marketing of agricultural and horticultural products.

"One of the fields in which co-operation among producers has been most effective is in the handling of dairy products, eggs, and poultry thru co-operative creameries. There are now in the Southeastern States some highly successful organizations of this kind, as an example of which I may cite the Catawba Creamery at Hickory, North Carolina. There have been failures of co-operative creameries in the Southeast as well as in other localities. Such failures may usually be attributed to one of two causes.

Either they have been established in advance of the assurance of a sufficient supply of cream to insure their profitable operation or they have had inefficient management. It is fundamentally essential to the success of a co-operative creamery that it shall be able to rely upon an ample and regular supply of cream and that it shall have capable management. Until these two things can be assured it will be better for the farmers of any community to sell their cream or to convert it into butter on their farms.

"The importance of efficient management in co-operative enterprises of all kinds can not be too strongly insisted upon. The success of such an organization can not be assured by a number of farmers getting together and simply agreeing to co-operate along certain lines. The management must be placed in the hands of a reliable man, either a member of the association or an employee, who has business capacity and who will insist upon conducting its operations strictly in accordance with business principles and keeping its accounts with as much accuracy and care as those of a manufacturing or commercial corporation. By giving proper attention to these important matters and by studying carefully the methods by which success has been achieved by others I believe that the farmers of many localities in the Southeast will find it advantageous to organize co-operative associations."

THE PECULIAR WORLD

This is a peculiar world. One is struggling for justice and another is fleeing from it. One man is saving to build a house, another is trying to sell his for less than cost to get rid of it. One man is spending all the money he can make in taking a girl to the theatre and sending her flowers with the hope of making her his wife, while his neighbor is spending what gold he possesses in getting a divorce. One man escapes all diseases that flesh is heir to and gets killed on the railroad. Another escapes with a scratch and dies with the whooping cough. One man stands off his creditors and goes traveling, while another pays his debts and stays at home. —Exchange.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

AVOID SEDATIVE COUGH MEDICINES

If you want to contribute directly to the occurrence of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia use cough medicine that contain codeine, morphine, heroin and other sedatives when you have a cough or cold. An expectorant Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is what is needed. That cleans out the culture beds or breeding places for the germs of pneumonia and other germ diseases. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold, when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world wide reputation for its cures. It contains no morphine or other sedative. For sale by all dealers.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Patron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side. The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair. At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work." If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.
